

I would like to comment that I believe it would be a serious mistake to allow the sale of the Rainbow 1 satellite to Echostar. I have been a VOOM customer since the beginning and it is truly the ONLY source for quality high definition programming. They are the only company that really seems to care about it at all. It is the only option for those of us who desire to have the best home entertainment possible. Allowing the marketplace to shrink back down to only two providers would be a serious step backwards for the industry. I just can't believe that it could happen. Please do not allow this hastily, and incorrectly, arranged sale to go through. The people who are purchasing VOOM now are totally committed to making this company work, but they will need to maintain ownership of their satellite. As long as someone is willing to fight to keep VOOM alive, please do not allow the rug to be pulled out from under them.
